Andrew Mulcahy oversees Goulston & Storrs' software portfolio. As the Director of IT Solutions, Andrew acts as the critical bridge between technology and people. He leads a team of industry leading applications professionals through the research, deployment, and maintenance of technology solutions that enable the secure, reliable, and efficient delivery of legal services. Andrew is known for his engagement with the legal tech community and his keen understanding of how process improvement impacts business. He has a collaborative, approachable nature and delivers hands-on, personalized guidance to lawyers and business professionals.

Prior to joining Goulston & Storrs as a systems analyst in 2020, Andrew was a member of the information services team at one of the largest publicly traded real estate development companies. In this role, he worked on both financial and legal systems. This experience informs his strategic approach to handling sensitive client data and successful deployment of new solutions and processes to the firm.
