

Construction/Real Estate

The Goulston & Storrs Construction/Real Estate group represents developers, owners, investors, general contractors, subcontractors, architects and engineers. We provide counsel in private and public construction projects, contract negotiation, planning, design, re-design, construction, re-construction, dispute avoidance and dispute resolution. Our clients have included shopping center developers and owners, large commercial and office building developers and owners, public transportation authorities, tenants and national scale as well as regional and local contractors.

Goulston & Storrs has vast experience in the negotiation of construction contracts on behalf of developers, owners, landlords and tenants. We also provide a full range of services to clients related to construction dispute resolution, with special emphasis on early intervention to contain and manage disputes before they develop into costly arbitration or litigation. If litigation is unavoidable, Goulston & Storrs is prepared to prosecute claims and maintain defenses in an aggressive manner using claim investigation and document control and technological aids with maximum effectiveness.
