

Governance & Regulatory Compliance

The Goulston & Storrs Governance and Regulatory Compliance group is a multi-disciplined group of attorneys, including experienced litigators with extensive litigation and trial experience in the state and federal courts and before administrative agencies, and white collar criminal defense lawyers with broad trial experience who provide compliance and prevention counseling to business and individual clients. They create and implement comprehensive regulatory compliance plans and programs for business clients to minimize the risk of non-compliance, fraud and abuse. Once allegations of wrongdoing surface, these attorneys conduct confidential internal investigations, recommend and implement corrective action, and assist in making appropriate disclosures to government agencies. In the event that a government enforcement agency initiates an investigation of a business or individual client, Goulston & Storrs attorneys manage and defend the full range of federal and state enforcement inquiries and grand jury investigations. Our experienced trial lawyers aggressively defend government enforcement actions at the federal, state and local levels in both civil and criminal trials and in administrative proceedings.
