John F. White III is a litigation associate. He brings with him valuable experience he acquired working for seven years at Dewey Square Group, a public affairs firm that helps businesses, nonprofits, and social causes achieve their respective goals by winning the support of opinion leaders and the public.

During law school, John served as a judicial intern to Superior Court Judge Gregg J. Pasquale, drafting judicial decisions and bench memoranda, conducting legal research and performing other tasks as required. During his final year of law school, he served as a student attorney for the Massachusetts Attorney General's Office drafting and arguing motions, and preparing pre-trial documents and legal research memoranda. He also served as a legal intern to the Keches Law Group in 2010, assisting lawyers with case preparations in litigation.

When not in the office, John's interests include tennis and golf.
