Kimán Kaur is a litigator in the firm’s Boston office. Kimán resolves a wide range of business disputes across all stages of litigation. She supports the firm’s litigation team, providing research, due diligence, depositions, case analysis and case management. Kimán rejoins Goulston & Storrs after being a summer associate in 2020. As a member of the firm’s litigation group, she spent her time drafting employment agreements, preparing memorandum on sexual harassment in workplace and housing, researching tax regulations, and analyzing ABA rules of professional conduct.

Prior to joining the firm, Kimán worked as judicial law clerk within the U.S. District Court in the District of Utah for the Honorable Ted Stewart where she drafted several court orders and assisted the Judge in courtroom proceedings. Her legal experience also includes interning for the Honorable Victoria Roberts in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan.

During law school Kimán provided legal assistance to victims through Northeastern’s Domestic Violence Law Clinic and served as a student attorney for Northeastern’s Civil Rights and Restorative Justice Clinic. She was also a legal intern for the National Asian Pacific American Women’s Forum, researching and addressing reproductive health disparities for Asian American and Pacific Islander women and girls.
