

Mayor Proclaims January 5 as Paul McDonough Day in Boston

January 6, 2021

Charlestown Patriot-Bridge

We are pleased to share that Boston Mayor, Marty Walsh, declared January 5, 2021 as Paul F. McDonough Day in the City of Boston. For over thirty years, Goulston's former colleague, Paul McDonough has been an active volunteer of the Boston Civic Design Commission (BCDC) and has been helping to shape the way Boston looks by providing insight into architecture, design, open space, and details for development projects throughout the city. Mayor Walsh stated, "Paul has served under three mayoral administrations, 10 Boston Redevelopment Authority Directors, three Boston Civic Design Commission Executive Directors, and has reviewed scores of projects throughout the City of Boston."

Click here to read the full article and learn more about Paul McDonough.