

Michele Astor-Pratt

Associate

mastor-pratt@goulstonstorrs.com

Boston: +1 617 574 0532

Michele Astor-Pratt is an associate in the firm's Corporate Group. Located in the firm's Boston office, Michele supports the firm's business transactional team across a range of industries and subject matters. She assists with research, due diligence, analysis, contract review, and serves other day-to-day client needs.

Prior to joining the firm, Michele was a seconded attorney with the Audax Group, a private equity fund focused on middle-market companies, where she negotiated NDAs and vendor contracts, helped with annual compliance audits, and assisted with regulatory filings.

Before going to law school, Michele worked as a librarian and information services professional at the National Archives, the Brookings Institution, DARPA, and EBSCO, a leading provider of research databases, e-journals, magazine subscriptions, ebooks, and discovery services for academic libraries. While at Boston College Law School, Michele served as the managing editor of the Boston College Law Review and a research assistant to two professors, assisting with research across various areas of law including treaties, global corporate tax, ethics, and big data to support faculty projects.

Affiliations

- Client Counseling Competition, Boston College Law School, former co-chair
- Harvard Law and International Development Society, former member
- Women Lawyers Journal, former editorial board member

Admissions

- Massachusetts

Education

- Boston College Law School (J.D., cum laude, 2023)

- University of Maryland (Master of Library Science, 2009)
- Clark University (B.A., 2004)