Israelis invested $2.4 billion in US real estate last year, making them one of the largest segments of foreign investors in the US real estate market. "The number of Israelis investing in US real estate is increasing every year, and I estimate that will continue to rise - despite global and political uncertainty," explains Zev Guwerz," Israelis were among the first foreign populations to re-trust the US real estate market after the Great Crisis of 2008."

These figures will be presented on January 23, 2020 as part of the 11th Annual Israel-US Real Estate Investment Conference to be held in Tel Aviv, attended by senior executives from the world and Israeli real estate investors.
