What to do about AI?

January 11, 2018

Just about every tech and business conference today have a focus on artificial intelligence. Every industry is scrambling to figure out how to use it and what impact it will have. Fear of competitors capitalizing on the technology and putting distance between non-adopters is a common topic. In addition, marketing departments have inserted the term all over websites claiming to have some...