Salome (Sally) Salia is a litigator in the firm's Boston office who resolves a wide range of business disputes across all stages of litigation. Sally supports the firm's litigation team through research, due diligence, depositions, case analysis, and case management. She rejoins Goulston & Storrs after being a summer associate in 2021.

Prior to joining the firm, Sally was a Judicial Extern to the Honorable Todd W. Eddins in the Supreme Court of the State of Hawaii. She was also a legal intern in the Office of Suspension and Disbarment at the World Bank Group in Washington DC. In her role with the World Bank, Sally reviewed sanctions against individuals and firms accused of fraud, corruption, and coercion in relation to procurement and implementation of World Bank-financed contracts.

Sally speaks advanced Georgian as well as conversational Spanish and Russian.
