Zachary Chupak is a trust and estates attorney advising high-net-worth individuals and families on comprehensive estate and tax planning, as well as trust and estate administration. He works closely with clients to navigate complex matters, involving estate and trust administration, business succession planning, and multi-generational wealth transfers.

Zach counsels multi-generational and blended families, tailoring strategies to meet their unique financial and personal goals. His experience includes managing estate plans that involve a wide range of assets, including interests in private equity funds, hedge funds, and other alternative investment vehicles.

Prior to joining the firm, Zach was an associate at a regional, mid-sized law firm, where he handled a range of estate and trust administrative matters. Before attending law school, Zach was an indigenous law legal researcher and a physics and math tutor.
